This extraordinary architect-designed house uniquely combines modern design, functionality, and flexible usage options. Completed in 2006, the building spans four floors and was conceived as a combination of living and working spaces.

The heart of the property is the open living concept with spacious, flexibly designed floor plans. Large windows provide maximum natural light and create a harmonious connection between indoor and outdoor areas. The open architecture allows for individual room design and offers a modern living experience with plenty of open space.

On the ground floor, there is a separately usable commercial or studio space, ideal for freelancers,
