Set within an established gated community in Riviera del Sol, this spacious corner semi-detached home combines generous indoor and outdoor living with Mediterranean character, a tourist licence, three communal pools and parking for two cars.

The main living area is one of the property's standout features, with high ceilings and an open gallery creating an impressive double-height space filled with natural light. Large doors connect the living area directly with the private garden and terraces, while a fireplace provides a natural focal point.

The living, dining and contemporary kitchen areas flow comfortably together. The kitchen features
