High above Cerrado de Calderón, on a corner plot with open views in more than one direction, this villa has the kind of position that cannot be recreated easily.

From the house, the eye moves between the Mediterranean Sea and the green mountain backdrop of Pinares de San Antón. It feels open, private and calm - close to Málaga city, but with the sense of space that makes this part of Málaga East so sought after.

Built around 20 years ago, the villa reflects the clean modern architecture of that period: generous volumes, large windows, strong materials and a very practical layout. It has not lost its relevance. Quite the opposite -...(Ask for More Details!)
